THE GRAY'S INV REVELS E^DED Gesta Grayorum The Revels at Grav's Inn provide a most interesting revelation of the mentality of the bright young men of aristocratic and upper middle-class England It seems extra-ordinary that this elaborate, and at times impudent, parodv of State should not only have been tolerated but actively encouraged by the Council, the robihty, the City, and even b} the Queen herself Gesta Grayorum a a mirror of the mind of the "younger generation — as brilliant as there has ever been in England — its wit, its tastes, amusements and aspirations See also note on Chapman's Humorous Day's Mirth, nth May, 1597
